

My son Isaiah, now 4-years-old, attended Little People's Place, Inc. for a little over 2 years. When I was ready to go back to work after having Isaiah, I began looking for daycare in the area. I went to three daycare centers before my appointment with LPP. For various reasons, I was not satisfied with any of them. When I first walked into LPP, my first reaction was a positive one. I just noticed how clean the center was and how organized things were. The staff was courteous and professional. I soon learned they had a nicely structured curriculum. Everything was spelled out in the handbook.

Isaiah learned things I thought they taught in elementary school. I was especially pleased with the director and the staff. They took a personal interest in the children. Isaiah was very happy to be there and I was happy and comfortable leaving him there while I worked. I would recommend LPP to anyone.

Sincerely,

Lydia Alford.
